Creating Traditions

ROYAL RAJWADA
collection'

The traditions, customs, and culture of India are something to take pride in. People respect and pursue each tradition with utmost sincerity. From a simple Namaste to celebrating every festival with enthusiasm, to even proudly wearing clothes of their own culture, these clothes symbolize their roots, history, and the feelings that associate with them. Though we find that women wear Sari and men traditional Dhoti-Kurtas throughout the country, the origin of all attires has a story to tell, a history to relate, and a feeling attached to it. When one talks about Sari, the most consistent and beautiful attire of the Indian land in ages. Though years changed, centuries have passed, but what hasn't changed is the charm of the Indian traditional Saree. The way women across the country carry out sari is impeccable. Yes! Styles may differ from region to region, generation to generation but beauty has not compromised itself with the ravages of time.
